

Kathy Hayward

Creative, dynamic, innovative, passionate and professional are a few positive adjectives that describe Kathy Hayward, elementary physical education teachers at Paul Norton School in Bettendorf, Iowa Her classroom climate is positive and promotes active learning, as well as promoting physical fitness and an active, healthy lifestyle.

Kathy implements the national standards for physical education with integrity and enthusiasm. Students in Kathy's classes not only learn the fundamentals of movement concepts principles, strategies, and tactics, they learn the importance of achieving and maintaining a healthy lifestyle, exhibiting responsible personal and social behavior that is respectful of themselves and others, as well as learn the value of physical activity.

Kathy epitomizes the ideal physical education teacher. She's a positive role model for students, staff, and community members. Kathy's high expectations and attention to truly educating kids in physical/health education has led to a healthier student population for Paul Norton school.

It is with great pleasure that I introduce the 2006 Elementary Physical Education teacher. Kathy Hayward.

---

Scott Lammers is physical education teacher at Bettendorf Middle School.

He is an energetic and enthusiastic teacher who sets high expectations for his students. He motivates his students to succeed in the physical, cognitive, and emotional aspects of physical education.

Scott's teaching represents the cutting edge of physical education instruction. He has initiated the use of heart rate monitors, vertical and horizontal climbing walls, and dance pads. (Dance, Dance revolution.)

Scott is a perfect role model for all of our students at Bettendorf Middle School. He believes passionately in his profession and understands the impact he can have on the students' lives. He is physically fit and often exercises with the students as well as maintaining his personal fitness routine.

One of Scott's many strengths is that he can reach out to all students...He has coached softball basketball, football and basketball at Bettendorf, but he also has taught the adapted physical education class for special education students for a number of years.

He demonstrates leadership every day by his character. He constantly mentors students to "do the right thing" and "treat people right".

Ladies and Gentlemen: I would like to introduce to you, Scott Lammers, 2006 Middle School Physical Education Teacher of the Year.

---

Susan Fowler epitomizes what a physical education instructor should be. She teaches through her own involvement and participation, and the students sense her enthusiasm and love for movement, physical education and athletics because of this.

Sue does an excellent job of relating to her students, both those who are high performers and those who are of lower ability. She has a unique capacity for bringing out the best in every student. Her classes are well organized and structured for physical activity along with instruction of various activities, including.

Due to Susan's belief and commitment to the importance of physical fitness, she has been fundamental in implementing a wide variety of activities and experiences into the high school physical education curriculum.

One of the greatest accomplishments Susan has done for the physical education department is to require all students to be certified in CPR. Since a student learned this essential skill in Her class, she was, as a high school junior, able to correctly perform CPR on her own mother and save her life.

Susan is respected by her students, colleagues and the community as a leader. Susan Fowler has been a dedicated teacher and coach in the Harlan Community school system for over 30 years.

Ladies and Gentleman. I would like to introduce you to the 2006 Secondary Physical Education Teachers of the Year....Susan Fowler.